Product Certification Insight--FEES

There are choices in which certification, testing, and listing agency you should select. PRODUCTCC offers the following information to assist in this very important decision.

Total fees may be comprised of some or all of the following.

Initial certification fees generally cover an engineering preliminary review, pre test inspection at your facility (if needed), testing your product, and completion of the report and publishing the listing.

Don't forget the travel and living fees for staff visiting your facility, equipment, materials, and facility fees associated with testing your product.

Factory audit fees covering the on going in plant audits of all your manufacturing facilities are often overlooked. Factory audit fees are often more important than the initial certification fee as they will be incurred each year and may be billed monthly or quarterly.

Label fees may be comprised of label printing, per label use fees, administrative fees for stocking and reordering and other fees based on the agency selected.

Annual administrative fees to cover the maintenance of your certification are also incurred.

Annual fees for testing your key components used in your finished product may be applicable for products manufactured with components not under listing and labeling service.
